

1000 new youth workers to help reduce the risk of unemployment

Young people will be able to access specialised support in their community, as the government makes largest investment into youth services in a generation.