

£1bn gift transfer to British Museum given green light

The Charity Commission has given its formal permission for the most valuable object donation in British museum history to go ahead.