The final register for FCs contains 214 664 electors, of which there are 206 355 individual electors and 8 309 corporate electors.

The final register for ECSSs contains 7 969 voters, of which there are 2 541 individual voters and 5 428 corporate voters.

"A net decrease of about 6 000 registered electors has been recorded in the 2022 final register of electors for GCs, compared to the provisional register. A net increase of about 100 registered electors has been recorded in the 2022 final register of electors for FCs, compared to the provisional register. A net decrease of six registered voters has been recorded in the 2022 final register of voters for ECSSs, compared to the provisional register. The figures reflect the follow-up actions taken by the REO based on the latest information available after the publication of the provisional registers of electors/voters, which mainly include de-registration of deceased electors/voters, people who were listed on the omissions lists and returned the reply slips in time to the REO to resume their elector/voter registration status, and those who supplemented the REO with the required information. With the approval of the Revising Officer, the persons concerned have been excluded from or included in the final registers of electors/voters accordingly," the spokesman said.

The electoral records of about 779 000 electors of GCs have been updated for the compilation of the final registers of electors.

Statistical information about these final registers of electors/voters will be available on the voter registration website (www.voterregistration.gov.hk) starting from September 25.
