

£33.4 million to fund new gateline improvements

New ticket gates at railway stations will help crack down on fare dodging, while reinvesting millions into better rail services across England.