

£78bn for councils in turning point settlement to cut deprivation

The funding injection is aimed at restoring pride, and councils will have more resources available to bring back libraries, youth services and community hubs.