

A celebration of citizen science

A celebration of citizen science following a year that saw more reportings of stranded marine life around Scotland's coasts than ever before is to be held in the Highlands.