

A decisive shift to power British AI: new £1.1 billion plan to back chip firms, boost computing power and skills for the AI revolution

New AI Hardware Plan sets out how the government will back British companies developing the chips and semiconductor technologies behind AI