

AI and satellites speed up planning approvals by tracking wild habitats across England

New records reveal the government is utilising AI and technology to enhance public services, including streamlining MOT inspections and speeding up planning with satellite habitat mapping.