

AI in education: how schools and further education colleges are making it work

A new report published today by Ofsted shares insights into how 'early adopter' schools and further education (FE) colleges across England are integrating generative artificial intelligence (AI) into teaching, learning, and ...