

Almost 1 in 5 children starting primary school are not fully protected against several serious diseases

UKHSA and NHS England call for parents and healthcare workers to catch up on children's missed vaccinations as schools start the autumn term.