

Ambition to end era of 'outsourcing by default' as government looks to bring cleaners and security staff in-house

The government has published new guidance to provide a route for bringing key services back in-house and get the absolute best results for taxpayers.