

Armed forces set to benefit from £50 million novel blood products research

£50 million of funding available to research novel blood products to improve treatment in emergency and trauma care.