

Green Party demands independent BAME Covid-19 inquiry

3 June 2020

- Greens of Colour call for independent inquiry to factor in institutional racism
- Azzees Minott: "The government's inquiry into the impact of Covid-19 on BAME people has let communities of colour down"

The Green Party has backed calls for an independent inquiry into the disproportionate impact of Covid-19 on black, Asian and minority ethnic people.

Greens of Colour chairperson Azzees Minott said: "The government's inquiry into the impact of Covid-19 on BAME people has let communities of colour down.

"It has been clear from the start that this review simply was not going to go far enough because it was never going to address the institutional racism that affects people of colour, particularly in the context of Covid-19.

"We have known since the beginning of this crisis that communities of colour are more at risk because of the social injustices that result in wide health, housing and employment inequalities within society.

"It is simply not acceptable that this report deliberately left out the impact of public health cuts, the experience of BAME frontline staff and the effectiveness of government messaging.

"It is also extremely worrying to hear reports that Matt Hancock's office may have removed key parts of the report which showed how discrimination and poorer life chances played a part in the increased risk to communities of colour. [1]

"We are backing the wider calls for an independent inquiry. It is time for the demands of the We Need Answers campaign to be heard." [2]

ENDS

Notes

1

<https://www.hsj.co.uk/coronavirus/exclusive-government-censored-bame-covid-risk-review/7027761.article>

2

<https://www.ubele.org/weneedanswers>

Tweet

Back to main news page

Let's block ads! \(Why?\)

Schools should not reopen until coronavirus tests have been clearly met, says Green Party

29 May 2020

The Green Party has urged local authorities not to fall in line with the Government's timetable for reopening schools until the conditions for easing lockdown have been clearly met.

Green Party education spokesperson Vix Lowthion, who is also a teacher on the Isle of Wight, has said the health and wellbeing of staff and pupils is being put at risk by reopening schools before it is safe to do so.

Lowthion said:

"Reopening schools on Monday will have an enormous impact on the health and wellbeing of thousands of families across the country, and so it is vital that any decision to do so is based on clear scientific guidance.

"Unfortunately, while the Prime Minister claims that the five tests for easing lockdown have been met, the Government's Chief Scientific Adviser has said that the 'R rate' is still near 1. This simply does not make sense and it is not right that we are putting the lives of children and staff at risk based on such conflicting advice.

"The Independent SAGE group has also set out clearly why it is too soon to be opening schools. [1]

"The government's own five tests have a glaring omission of ensuring there is an adequate test, trace and isolate operation as recommended by the World Health Organisation [2]. We are simply nowhere near that yet and until that is in place it is not safe to reopen schools.

"We know there are real issues with inequality and some young people falling behind, but this is about weighing up the risks and putting people's health first, while doing everything we can to ensure those pupils who need more support can receive it in other ways.

“We are working with local Green parties and councillors across the country to put pressure on their local authorities not to fall in line with the Government’s timetable on schools reopening. Local decision making is vitally important, particularly if authorities need to be able to respond to local lockdowns in the future.”

ENDS

Notes

1

<https://schoolsworld.co.uk/independent-sage-6-key-findings-on-why-schools-shouldnt-reopen-on-june-1/>

2

<https://www.who.int/dg/speeches/detail/who-director-general-s-opening-remarks-at-the-media-briefing-on-covid-19-13-april-2020>

Tweet

Back to main news page

Let's block ads! \(Why?\)

Joint Biosecurity Centre: Greens sound alarm over civil liberties, data protection and scientific expertise

28 May 2020

Jonathan Bartley, co-leader of the Green Party of England and Wales, has written to Health Secretary Matt Hancock raising a series of concerns about the role of the Joint Biosecurity Centre. [1]

It follows the announcement yesterday of the need for local lockdowns and the role the centre would play. [2]

It has previously been reported that centre would closely follow the UK’s anti-terrorism national security system. [3]

Bartley said:

“Rather than relying on the established expertise of Public Health England, Matt Hancock has chosen to establish a totally new body, the Joint Biosecurity Centre, about whom we know next to nothing but would play a significant part in local lockdowns.

“Such lockdowns would clearly impact fundamental civil rights and so it is vital that there is clarity and political accountability about who is making decisions about when and how such restrictions should be imposed and then lifted, and how they will be scrutinised

“It is essential that its membership is made public, together with information about its members, how they have been selected, on what basis and particularly whether they have scientific or medical expertise.

“So far the only public information is that the body will be led by Tom Hurd. We know very little about him, other than that he is a leading candidate to take over as the next director general of MI6.

“Putting this together with concerns about the acquisition and storage of highly personal health data rings alarm bells about our civil liberties.”

ENDS

Notes

1

A copy of the letter is available to view here.

2

On Wednesday 27 May, the Health Secretary raised the issue of local lockdowns in response to flare-ups of the Coronavirus and the role of the Joint Biosecurity Centre in deciding when they should be implemented in particular settings..

3

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2020/may/12/former-counter-terror-official-tom-hurd-put-in-charge-new-uk-biosecurity-centre-coronavirus>

Tweet

Back to main news page

Let's block ads! \(Why?\)

Public should also be applauded at tonight's Clap for Carers, says Green Party MP Caroline Lucas

28 May 2020

- Caroline Lucas MP calls for tonight's Clap for Carers to also be for the public, in recognition of the huge sacrifices people have made to keep others safe
- Lucas says coronavirus crisis has shown our extraordinary capacity for compassion and generosity as she calls for green recovery and renewal
- Lucas: "If we the people show the lead, we can force even this Government to do the right thing."

Green Party MP Caroline Lucas has said the public should also applaud each other at what is expected to be the final weekly Clap for Carers tonight [Thursday 28 May], in recognition of the huge sacrifices people have made to keep others safe.

In a speech to launch the party's campaign for a green recovery from the coronavirus crisis, [1], Lucas said that the courage and solidarity of the British public throughout the crisis has stood in sharp contrast to the country's leadership.

The coronavirus crisis has seen people make huge, often harrowing, personal sacrifices. And it has also seen hundreds of thousands of volunteers willing to risk their lives to help out millions of key workers putting duty and compassion above their own safety and the mutual aid movement bringing together communities up and down our land.

Lucas said this collective effort has changed us as a nation and shown we can build the better future the public deserve, one where the climate is safer. The inclination to goodness is hard wired in humanity. Despite the danger, fear and terrible sadness caused by the pandemic, we can now finally demolish the miserable mythology of human selfishness. And we can harness this new energy to tackle the even bigger crisis we face, the climate crisis.

In the speech Lucas said:

"The courage and solidarity of the British people stands in stark contrast to the leadership our country has suffered during this crisis.

"And I think that's why we all feel so angry over the actions of Dominic Cummings. It's as if all those sacrifices are being thrown back in our faces.

"I share your fury in the face of the complacency, incompetence and dishonesty we have endured.

“But just as we have changed as a nation, as communities, as individuals we have to believe that if we apply the right pressure, if we the people show the lead, we can force even this Government to do the right thing.”

The Green Party will be setting out its proposals in the coming weeks as part of the campaign. It is calling for:

- A commitment to a green recovery including investment energy efficiency and clean transport in order to get people back to work and to modernise our economy
- Tapping into the energy and generosity shown by the people of Britain to give every part of the country the tools they need to build inclusive and sustainable places and communities.
- Putting people back at the heart of our democracy by ensuring all of us are partners in designing a better future for our nation.
- Extending the connections we have made in our communities so that we work together whatever our political beliefs

ENDS

Notes

1

The speech is available to watch on the Green Party's Facebook page.

Tweet

Back to main news page

Let's block ads! \(Why?\)

Jonathan Bartley calls for investigation into potential breach of special advisers' code of conduct by Dominic Cummings

26 May 2020

Green Party co-leader Jonathan Bartley has called for an investigation into whether Dominic Cummings broke the special advisers' code of conduct by editing a blog post which he claimed predicted the risk of coronavirus.

In the press conference held yesterday in the Downing Street garden, Cummings claimed he had written about "the possible threat of coronaviruses" last year.

It has since emerged that a post on the aide's personal blog from March 2019 appears to have been edited on April 14 this year to include a reference to coronavirus. This was the day he returned to work after self-isolating in Durham. [1]

Bartley has now written to the Head of the Civil Service and Cabinet Secretary Sir Mark Sedwill [2] to ask whether this action would be in breach of the special advisers' code of conduct which states "Special advisers must not take public part in political controversy, through any form of statement whether in speeches or letters to the press, or in books, social media, articles or leaflets." [3]

He has also asked for an explanation about who authorised the press conference, which itself also appears to be a breach of the code.

Bartley said:

"If Mr Cummings has gone back to edit blog posts while he was a special advisor to the Government, to make it appear he was predicting a coronavirus pandemic last year then that clearly needs investigating.

"This took place while he was taking part in meetings at the highest level to determine the Government policy on Coronavirus and it would appear to be a clear breach of the special advisers' code of conduct.

"The fact Mr Cummings was given the platform of the Downing Street garden to hold a press conference to try to explain his journey to Durham also raises serious questions over why this was permitted and whether any taxpayers' money was used.

"There must be clear boundaries to defend the independence of the civil service. It would be wholly inappropriate if any civil servant supported Mr Cummings yesterday.

"There must be an explanation about why the press conference was permitted, who was involved, what resources were used as well as an investigation into whether Mr Cummings himself broke the civil service code."

ENDS

Notes

1

<https://twitter.com/faisalislam/status/1265034438645293056>

2

A copy of the letter can be viewed here

Special advisers code of conduct is available to view here:

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/special-advisers-code-of-conduct>

Tweet

Back to main news page

Let's block ads! \(Why?\)