

Latest directions under Prevention and Control of Disease (Requirements and Directions) (Business and Premises) Regulation

In view of the emergence of 62 confirmed COVID-19 cases related to the bar and band cluster with further spread to additional 14 secondary, tertiary and quaternary cases (including a 40-day old infant) who had not visited any bar, the Government will introduce new measures to regulate businesses that sell or supply intoxicating liquors for on-site consumption. In accordance with the Prevention and Control of Disease (Requirements and Directions) (Business and Premises) Regulation (The Regulation) (Cap. 599F), the Secretary for Food and Health (SFH) has issued directions through notices in the Gazette today (April 2) to be effective for 14 days from 6pm on April 3, 2020 (i.e. till 5.59pm on April 17), such that –

- (a) any premises (commonly known as bar or pub) that is exclusively or mainly used for the sale or supply of intoxicating liquors as defined in section 53(1) of the Dutiable Commodities Ordinance (Cap. 109) ("intoxicating liquors") for consumption in that premises must be closed;
- (b) any part of a catering business premise that is exclusively or mainly used for the sale or supply of intoxicating liquors for consumption in that part must be closed; and
- (c) any area in a club-house that is exclusively or mainly used for the sale or supply of intoxicating liquors for consumption in that area must be closed.

A spokesperson for the Food and Health Bureau reminds the persons responsible for carrying on the catering business and the managers of scheduled premises that contravening the above requirements would be a criminal offence. Offenders are subject to a maximum fine of $50,000 and imprisonment for six months.

The spokesperson said that the Government has been reviewing the feasibility of relevant measures and will make timely adjustments in view of the latest developments of the disease. The above directions could help further enhance social distancing. A summary on the latest instructions issued by SFH in accordance with the Regulation and the earlier directions issued on March 28 and April 1 are at Annex.

The Centre for Health Protection (CHP) urges members of the public to go out less and avoid social activities such as meal gatherings or other gatherings and maintain an appropriate social distance with other people as far as possible.

The CHP also strongly urges the public to maintain at all times strict personal and environmental hygiene, which is key to personal protection against infection and prevention of the spread of the disease in the community. On a personal level, members of the public should wear surgical masks when having respiratory symptoms, taking public transport or staying in crowded places. They should also perform hand hygiene frequently, especially before touching the mouth, nose or eyes.

The Department of Health will closely monitor the situation. Any updates will be issued through the media, the Government's "COVID-19 Thematic Website" (www.coronavirus.gov.hk/eng/index.html) and the DH's webpage (www.gov.hk/ncv). Any enquiries on health information on COVID-19 may be addressed to the DH's hotline at (852) 2125 1122 (operating daily from 8am to midnight).

Shortened operating hours of passenger clearance services at Shenzhen Bay Port

A Government spokesman said today (April 2) that the operating hours of the passenger clearance services at the Shenzhen Bay Port will be adjusted to 10am to 8pm daily with effect from April 3 until further notice. The operating hours for cargo clearance will not be affected and remain unchanged (i.e. from 6:30 am to midnight daily).

In response to the dire situation of the COVID-19 epidemic, the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (HKSAR) Government and the Shenzhen Municipal Government have, after deliberation, agreed to shorten the operating hours of the passenger clearance services at the Shenzhen Bay Port to reduce the cross-boundary people flow and better utilise resources for epidemic prevention work at the control points. The operating hours for cargo clearance remains unchanged.

In view of the development of the epidemic situation, the HKSAR Government has, since January 30, suspended passenger clearance services at 12 land-based and sea-based control points by phases. Currently, passenger clearance services are only available at two land-based control points, i.e. the Shenzhen Bay Port and the Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macao Bridge Hong Kong Port. Separately, since February 8, all persons entering Hong Kong from the Mainland or having stayed in the Mainland in the past 14 days before arrival in Hong Kong are subject to compulsory quarantine for 14 days. The 14-day compulsory quarantine arrangement has been extended to persons entering Hong Kong from Macao from March 25 onwards.

The above measures have been effective in reducing the cross-boundary people flow and the risk of spreading the virus. As of yesterday (April 1), the number of arrivals and departures via the Shenzhen Bay Port was 1 392 (of which 85 per cent were Hong Kong residents), representing a 97 per cent decrease compared with the figure prior to the implementation of the above measures. The number of arrivals and departures via the Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macao Bridge Hong Kong Port was 141 (nearly 80 per cent of which were Hong Kong residents), representing a 99 per cent decrease compared with the figures prior to the implementation of the above measures.

All land-based cargo clearance services have been operating as usual. In March, there were an average of 8 197 trips by goods vehicles entering Hong Kong daily (8 186 trips departing Hong Kong), representing a 20 per cent increase compared with an average of 6 838 trips daily (6 815 trips departing Hong Kong) in January.

The spokesman appeals to members of the public to avoid all non-essential travel to places outside Hong Kong. They are advised to stay home and avoid social activities such as meal gatherings or other gatherings, and keep an appropriate social distance from other people as far as possible.

CS visits Police to learn more about anti-epidemic work \(with photos\)

The Chief Secretary for Administration, Mr Matthew Cheung Kin-chung, this afternoon (April 2) visited Police Headquarters to understand at first hand the work of the Police in assisting in the enforcement of compulsory quarantine.

Accompanied by the Chief Superintendent, Crime Wing Support Group of the Hong Kong Police Force, Ms Tsang Yim-sheung, Mr Cheung received a briefing on how the Police have made use of the Major Incident Investigation and Disaster Support System (MIIDSS) to provide effective support and assistance to the Centre for Health Protection (CHP) of the Department of Health regarding its epidemiological investigations and relevant contact tracing for confirmed cases. The MIIDSS, a data-processing computer system, is used mainly in work such as large-scale incident case investigation, identification of victims in disasters and epidemic case analysis.

He learned that the Police have been liaising closely with the CHP since the Serious Response Level under the Preparedness and Response Plan for Novel Infectious Disease of Public Health Significance came into effect. They have also activated the use of the MIIDSS in view of the latest developments of COVID-19 to provide support to the CHP's work.

Mr Cheung also met with front-line staff responsible for MIIDSS analysis to learn about their work. "The relevant system is essential in assisting in the tracing of the sources of infection and people who have come into close contact with confirmed cases. I am most grateful to colleagues of the Police Force for their hard work and contribution to the prevention of the spread of the disease," he said.

He also learned that the Police have spared no effort in tracking down offenders who have violated compulsory quarantine orders. As at 8am today (April 2), 80 persons under home quarantine had been found by the Police to have breached quarantine orders and were sent to quarantine centres.

"Given the severe epidemic situation, the Government will exercise zero tolerance towards breaches of quarantine orders and stringent enforcement action will be taken. I appeal to the public not to defy the laws," he said.

He was also briefed on the Police's anti-epidemic work on other fronts, such as combating mask scams and maintaining order in quarantine centres. Since the implementation of the Prevention and Control of Disease (Requirements and Directions) (Business and Premises) Regulation (Cap. 599F) and the Prevention and Control of Disease (Prohibition on Group Gathering) Regulation (Cap. 599G) last week, various government departments, including the Police and the Food and Environmental Hygiene Department, have been inspecting regulated premises in various districts to check for non-compliance and remind the public to comply with the requirements of the Regulations through verbal explanation, advice or warning.

"Police officers have been standing steadfast in their posts and joining hands with other government departments in the fight against the epidemic. I urge members of the public to be self-disciplined, stay home as far as possible and continue to comply with the measures for maintaining social distancing so that Hong Kong can overcome the epidemic before long," he said.
