The Census and Statistics Department (C&SD) released today (March 25) the external merchandise trade statistics for February 2025. In February 2025, the values of Hong Kong's total exports and imports of goods both recorded year-on-year increases, at 15.4% and 11.8% respectively.

Commentary

A Government spokesman said that Hong Kong's merchandise exports continued to see solid increase in general in early 2025. Taking the first two months of 2025 together to remove the effect of the earlier arrival of the Chinese New Year this year, the value of merchandise exports grew by 6.5% over a year earlier. Exports to the Mainland increased visibly, and those to many other Asian markets also increased. Exports to the United States rose marginally, while those to the European Union declined.

Looking ahead, the tariff measures introduced so far by the United States and the uncertainties surrounding protectionist policies would continue to pose challenges to Hong Kong's merchandise trade performance. Nevertheless, the sustained growth in global economy in particular the Mainland economy, should render support to Hong Kong's exports. The Government will monitor the situation closely.
