

Dominic Raab appointed new Foreign Secretary

The new Foreign Secretary spoke to media on arrival at the Foreign Office. He said:

I'm hugely humbled to take on this role at this time and excited about the opportunities that lie ahead. Obviously we've got the challenges of Brexit, that's something we wanted the country to rise to. Obviously the Foreign Office, the message we send about the opportunities around the world and our confidence in our country, taking those opportunities with enthusiasm, optimism, is something I can't wait to get involved with.

Priti Patel appointed Home Secretary

This evening, the Rt Hon Priti Patel has been appointed Home Secretary.

She was welcomed to the department by the Permanent Secretary Sir Philip Rutnam.

Speaking outside the Home Office, she said:

It's a great honour to be appointed Home Secretary.

With this great office of state comes significant responsibility and I will do everything in my power to keep our country safe, our people secure, and also to fight the scourge of crime that we see on our streets.

I also want to thank my predecessor Sajid Javid for his commitment to the Home Office and law and order.

I look forward to the challenges that now lie ahead.

6 things to know about our performance in 2018-19

1. Supporting the UK economy

There are now more than 4.2 million companies on the register. Information from the Companies House register, which is free and available online, was accessed over 6.8 billion times this year.

Company data underpins confidence in the UK economy, is used by all sectors of society for important decision making and supports law enforcement in the fight against economic crime.

2. Transforming our organisation

Our organisational wide transformation programme started this year and we've already made some good progress against our strategic goals.

We're working on a range of new digital services and have extended the range of accounts that can be submitted digitally by introducing a service for filing small full accounts.

3. Planning for the future

We've continued to work collaboratively with colleagues across government to prepare for upcoming legislative change. These changes include the 5th Money Laundering Directive, Limited Partnership Reform and a new beneficial ownership register of overseas entities that own UK property.

Reforming how we operate to better support the UK economy, enhance the value of our information and expand our role in combatting economic crime has also been a major focus this year. Working with BEIS, we've developed and launched a consultation on corporate transparency and register reform.

As we move into next year, we'll be considering the responses, developing proposals and preparing new legislative measures that will enable us to reform Companies House.

4. Building a high-performance culture

We achieved an engagement score of 69% in the 2018 Civil Service People Survey. This is a 3% increase on last year and made us the top scoring Civil Service department for organisations of 400 to 999 employees.

In line with this, we're the first organisation in Wales to be awarded the Mind gold standard for our commitment to promoting mental health in the workplace.

We also successfully retained the Investors in People gold standard and have been recognised for our work in employee engagement and wellbeing, and diversity and inclusion, with a variety of award nominations.

5. Helping our local communities

We're committed to having a positive impact on the local community, and this year we recorded our highest number of employee volunteers. 41% of our colleagues took part in 501 volunteer days with a wide variety of local organisations.

Our fantastic employees raised £10,494.26 for charity through fundraising efforts including:

- Children in Need
- Mental Health Awareness ribbons
- Cupcake Day for Alzheimer's
- a charity bike ride for Cancer Research Wales

6. Celebrating success

We're particularly proud to have won awards across a wide range of activities this year. These include:

- Wales HR Awards – Employer of the Year
- Investors in People – Gold standard
- CIPD Wales – Winner, best engagement initiative
- Chwarae Teg Fair Play – Silver award
- Disability confident – Level 2
- Mind Index – Gold standard
- Customer Service Excellence

Boris Johnson's first speech as Prime Minister: 24 July 2019

Good afternoon

I have just been to see Her Majesty the Queen who has invited me to form a government and I have accepted

I pay tribute to the fortitude and patience of my predecessor and her deep sense of public service but in spite of all her efforts it has become clear that there are pessimists at home and abroad

who think that after three years of indecision that this country has become a prisoner to the old arguments of 2016 and that in this home of democracy we are incapable of honouring a basic democratic mandate

And so I am standing before you today to tell you the British people that those critics are wrong

The doubters, the doomsters, the gloomsters – they are going to get it wrong again

The people who bet against Britain are going to lose their shirts because we are going to restore trust in our democracy and we are going to fulfil the repeated promises of parliament to the people and come out of the EU on October 31

no ifs or buts

and we will do a new deal, a better deal that will maximise the opportunities of Brexit while allowing us to develop a new and exciting partnership with the rest of Europe

based on free trade and mutual support

I have every confidence that in 99 days' time we will have cracked it but you know what – we aren't going to wait 99 days because the British people have had enough of waiting

The time has come to act,

to take decisions to give strong leadership and to change this country for the better and though the Queen has just honoured me with this extraordinary office of state my job is to serve you, the people because if there is one point we politicians need to remember it is that the people are our bosses

My job is to make your streets safer – and we are going to begin with another 20,000 police on the streets and we start recruiting forthwith

My job is to make sure you don't have to wait 3 weeks to see your GP and we start work this week with 20 new hospital upgrades, and ensuring that money for the NHS really does get to the front line

My job is to protect you or your parents or grandparents from the fear of having to sell your home to pay for the costs of care and so I am announcing now – on the steps of Downing Street – that we will fix the crisis in social care once and for all with a clear plan we have prepared to give every older person the dignity and security they deserve

My job is to make sure your kids get a superb education wherever they are in the country and that's why we have already announced that we are going to level up per pupil funding in primary and secondary schools and that is the work that begins immediately behind that black door and though I am today building a great team of men and women I will take personal responsibility for the change I want to see

Never mind the backstop – the buck stops here

And I will tell you something else about my job.

It is to be Prime Minister of the whole United Kingdom and that means uniting our country answering at last the plea of the forgotten people and the left behind towns by physically and literally renewing the ties that bind us together so that with safer streets and better education and fantastic new road and rail infrastructure and full fibre broadband

we level up across Britain with higher wages, and a higher living wage, and higher productivity

we close the opportunity gap giving millions of young people the chance to own their own homes and giving business the confidence to invest across the UK because it is time we unleashed the productive power not just of London and the South East but of every corner of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland the awesome foursome that are incarnated in that red white and blue flag who together are so much more than the sum of their parts and whose brand and political personality is admired and even loved around the world for our inventiveness, for our humour, for our universities, our scientists, our armed forces, our diplomacy for the equalities on which we insist – whether race or gender or LGBT or the right of every girl in the world to 12 years of quality education and for the values we stand for around the world

Everyone knows the values that flag represents

It stands for freedom and free speech and habeas corpus and the rule of law and above all it stands for democracy and that is why we will come out of the EU on October 31 because in the end Brexit was a fundamental decision by the British people that they wanted their laws made by people that they can elect and they can remove from office and we must now respect that decision and create a new partnership with our European friends – as warm and as close and as affectionate as possible and the first step is to repeat unequivocally our guarantee to the 3.2 m EU nationals now living and working among us and I say directly to you – thank you for your contribution to our society

thank you for your patience and I can assure you that under this government you will get the absolute certainty of the rights to live and remain

And next I say to our friends in Ireland, and in Brussels and around the EU

I am convinced that we can do a deal without checks at the Irish border, because we refuse under any circumstances to have such checks and yet without that anti-democratic backstop and it is of course vital at the same time that we prepare for the remote possibility that Brussels refuses any further to negotiate and we are forced to come out with no deal not because we want that outcome – of course not but because it is only common sense to prepare and let me stress that there is a vital sense in which those preparations cannot be wasted and that is because under any circumstances we will need to get ready at some point in the near future to come out of the EU customs union and out of regulatory control fully determined at last to take advantage of brexit because that is the course on which this country is now set with high hearts and growing confidence we will now accelerate the work of getting ready and the ports will be ready and the banks will be ready and the factories will be ready and business will be ready and the hospitals will be ready and our amazing food and farming sector will be ready and waiting to continue selling ever more not just here but around the world and don't forget that in the event of a no deal outcome we will have the extra lubrication of the £39 bn and whatever deal we do we will prepare this autumn for an economic package to boost British business and to lengthen this country's lead as the number one destination in this continent for overseas investment and to all those who continue to prophesy disaster

I say yes – there will be difficulties though I believe that with energy and application they will be far less serious than some have claimed but if there is one thing that has really sapped the confidence of business over the last three years it is not the decisions we have taken it is our refusal to take decisions and to all those who say we cannot be ready

I say do not underestimate this country

Do not underestimate our powers of organisation and our determination because we know the enormous strengths of this economy in life sciences, in tech, in academia, in music, the arts, culture, financial services,

It is here in Britain that we are using gene therapy, for the first time, to treat the most common form of blindness here in Britain that we are leading the world in the battery technology that will help cut CO2 and tackle climate change and produce green jobs for the next generation and as we prepare for a post-Brexit future it is time we looked not at the risks but at the opportunities that are upon us so let us begin work now to create freeports that will drive growth and thousands of high-skilled jobs in left behind areas let's start now to liberate the UK's extraordinary bioscience sector from anti genetic modification rules and let's develop the blight-resistant crops that will feed the world

let's get going now on our own position navigation and timing satellite and earth observation systems – UK assets orbiting in space with all the long term strategic and commercial benefits for this country

Let's change the tax rules to provide extra incentives to invest in capital and research and let's promote the welfare of animals that has always been so close to the hearts of the British people and yes, let's start now on those free trade deals because it is free trade that has done more than anything else to lift billions out of poverty

all this and more we can do now and only now, at this extraordinary moment in our history and after three years of unfounded self-doubt it is time to change the record

to recover our natural and historic role as an enterprising, outward-looking and truly global Britain, generous in temper and engaged with the world

No one in the last few centuries has succeeded in betting against the pluck and nerve and ambition of this country

They will not succeed today

We in this government will work flat out to give this country the leadership it deserves and that work begins now

Thank you very much

Heat health advice: 2019

Latest update

As the weather is forecast to be exceptionally hot on 25 July 2019, Public Health England (PHE) has reiterated its advice to vulnerable groups – older people, those with underlying health conditions, and very young children.

Owen Landeg, Principal Environmental Public Health Scientist at Public Health England said:

The extreme heat means that our bodies, especially our hearts and lungs, have to work harder to maintain a normal temperature. This is why our advice focuses on reminding people to keep an eye on those who are most at risk, older people, those with underlying health conditions and very young children. The most important advice is to ensure they stay hydrated, keep cool and keep their homes cool.

Frank Saunders, Chief Meteorologist at the Met Office said:

There is a real possibility of records being broken this week, not only for July but also all-time records. The weather setup is broadly similar to the pattern that brought high temperatures to much of continental Europe at the end of June.

As well as high temperatures during the day, overnight temperatures will also be notably warm and could also break records. Conditions will feel much more comfortable for western parts of the UK by the time we get to Friday.

Signs and symptoms of heat exhaustion and heatstroke \(NHS\)

Previous updates

22 July 2019

Weather forecasts show a very warm week for much of the country with hot days and warm nights. Temperatures are likely to rise on Tuesday 23 July through to Thursday 25 July 2019, which may leave older people, young children and those with long-term conditions, including heart and lung diseases, struggling to adapt to the heat.

Owen Landeg, Principal Environmental Public Health Scientist at Public Health England said:

Much of the advice on beating the heat is common sense and for many people spells of warmer weather are something they very much enjoy. However, for some people, such as older people, those with underlying health conditions and young children, the summer heat can bring real health risks. That's why we're urging everyone to keep an eye on those you know who may be at risk this summer.

If you're able, ask if your friends, family or neighbours need any support. Also take water with you when travelling and keep up to date with weather forecasts.

It's also worth remembering to think about practical steps to keep homes cool during the day as this can aid sleeping at night and give the body time to recover from the heat.

Chief Meteorologist at the Met Office, Paul Gundersen said:

The UK will experience another pulse of high temperatures this week, with the possibility of records being broken for not only July but also all-time records. The weather setup is broadly similar to the pattern that brought high temperatures to much of continental Europe at the end of June.

As well as high temperatures during the day, overnight temperatures will also be notably warm and could also break records. Conditions will feel much more comfortable for all by the time we get to

Friday.

The top ways for staying safe when the heat arrives are to:

- drink plenty of fluids and avoid excess alcohol
- look out for others, especially older people, young children and babies and those with underlying health conditions
- close curtains on rooms that face the sun to keep indoor spaces cooler and remember it may be cooler outdoors than indoors
- never leave anyone in a closed, parked vehicle, especially infants, young children or animals
- try to keep out of the sun between 11am to 3pm
- take care and follow local safety advice, if you are going into the water to cool down
- walk in the shade, apply sunscreen and wear a hat if you have to go out in the heat
- avoid physical exertion in the hottest parts of the day
- wear light, loose fitting cotton clothes
- make sure you take water with you if you are travelling