

Topical hormone treatments: pet owners warned of risks to pets from accidental exposure

Topical hormone products such as gels and creams can be absorbed accidentally by pets through close contact.

Free flu jabs for people experiencing homelessness

The government will offer flu vaccination to those experiencing homelessness beginning in Autumn.

UK and partners strengthen climate resilience and conservation in Guatemala

The UK and local partners have completed a project to protect nature and support communities in western Guatemala.

CMA investigates Ryanair over charging parents to sit with children

Budget airline Ryanair is under investigation by the CMA over fees that parents must pay to sit with their children – including those with disabilities.

UKHSA publishes first Health Security Risk Assessment in boost to pandemic preparedness

UKHSA publishes its first Health Security Risk Assessment (HSRA), which characterises the most significant health security risks facing the UK over the next 5 years.