

Trust Mary Seacole Scholar publishes report about experience of minority ethnic nursing associates

A new report explores the experiences of a group of nursing associate staff from minority ethnic backgrounds and proposes improvements to help maximise potential.

Royal Philharmonic Society Award win for ENO Breathe programme supporting patients recovering from Covid-19

The ENO Breathe programme, developed in partnership with Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust, has won the Royal Philharmonic Society's (RPS) 2021 Impact Award.

NIHR Imperial Biomedical Research Centre launches new framework to improve equality, diversity and inclusion in research

The BRC has committed to a new framework that will underpin its work and help improve equality of access to research opportunities for both research staff and study participants.

Trust carries out world-first non-invasive procedure to safely treat twin pregnancy complications

Doctors at Queen Charlotte's and Chelsea hospital have completed a world first procedure to safely treat a pair of twins in the womb with a rare condition.

A focus on our commitment to reduce carbon emissions to coincide with COP26

While attention turns to COP26, we want to highlight the advances we are helping to achieve locally to reduce our own impact on the environment.