

Ban on evictions extended by 2 months to further protect renters

Renters across England and Wales will receive greater protection after the government extended the suspension of new evictions until 23 August.