

Better protections for children in custody

Children in youth custody will be better protected through stronger safeguarding, dedicated social workers, tougher vetting and independent oversight