

Biomining study could unlock future settlements on other worlds

A UK-led space biomining experiment, which has the potential to provide resources for future space missions, is due to launch on a SpaceX rocket today