

Britain continues to break clean power records

Households across the UK continue to embrace solar power as the government accelerates its clean power mission.