

Britain must secure greater control and leverage over AI to protect our national security in fractured world

In a landmark speech, the Technology Secretary said there must be a “decisive move” towards backing more British tech companies as AI reshapes global power, security and prosperity.