

Britain's leading the way protecting children from online predators

UK becomes the first country in the world to create new AI sexual abuse offences to protect children from predators generating AI images.