

Businesses handed £4.2 million in fines following freelancer pay investigation

Lessons from the Competition and Market Authority (CMA)'s investigation into sports broadcasting and production companies that colluded on rates of pay for freelance workers.