

Charging into the future: government set to deliver over 100,000 more EV chargepoints

Local authorities across England are set to enter into contracts with chargepoint operators, making it easier for everyone to switch to EVs.