

Civil Service course gets digital refresh to help civil servants

The popular online writing course Foundations of Writing in Government has been updated, to help more civil servants improve essential communication skills.