

Climate considerations now fully embedded across UK principal financial regulators

The UK has extended its global leadership on green finance by requiring its principal financial regulators to consider climate change, it was announced today (24 March 2021).