

Close season retained following public consultation

The Environment Agency has decided to retain the current coarse fishing close season on English rivers.