

Construction of a new British High Commission in Nicosia begins

The British High Commission has announced that construction on the new buildings have started at the existing site in Nicosia.