

Cracking down on sex-based harassment in public

New law will target those who harass women and girls in public because of their sex.