

Creative States of Mind: a new collection of interviews exploring artists and the creative process

What does it feel like to be an artist? Patricia Townsend spoke to professional artists to find out and the interviews are now available at the British Library.