

Crime cutting courts to target prolific offending hotspots

Communities blighted by prolific offenders will be better protected as part of an expansion of revolutionary new courts aimed at cutting less serious crime.