

Critical UK satellites to be defended from laser threats

The UK is investing in sensors that will help protect satellites crucial to our economy and security from lasers from adversaries