

Curriculum quality improved in schools since education inspection framework introduced

Ofsted has today published an evaluation assessing the role that the current education inspection framework (EIF) has played in improving curriculum quality in schools.