

Digital mental health technologies guidance launched to help manufacturers and safeguard users

New guidance helps manufacturers navigate medical device regulations and protect users of digital mental health technologies.