

Disused tube station sells for £53 million

The Ministry of Defence has sold a former London Underground station, used during the Second World War as a command centre, for £53 million.