

Dr Ciaran Beggan talks to The Guardian's Ian Sample about the magnetic north pole

Scientists have updated the World Magnetic Model, which underlies navigation for ships and planes, nearly a year ahead of schedule because the magnetic poles have wandered more quickly than expected in recent years.