

Dstl assesses robotic systems in hazardous incident recovery trial

Robots, not people, could respond to future high-risk incidents following the Defence Science and Technology Laboratory's recent testing.