

Environment Secretary announces Land Use Framework

Steve Reed sets out how the most sophisticated land use data ever published will support decision-making by local government, landowners, businesses and farmers