

Environment Secretary Michael Gove talks about Britain taking...

Environment Secretary Michael Gove talks about Britain taking back control of its territorial waters as we leave the EU, deciding who comes into our seas, who fishes and making sure that more of what is caught in our own waters is caught by British boats and landed in British ports.