

Environment Secretary's letter to the food and drink industry

Environment Secretary George Eustice has written an open letter to all those working in the food and drink supply chains