

Bristol fly-tipper with fake name caught by investigation

A Bristol man has been prosecuted for fly-tipping waste in Avonmouth by the Environment Agency after being caught on CCTV.

Regional Flood and Coastal Committee (RFCC) chair appointments

The RFCC chair appointments have been announced

Environment Agency consults on Devonport permit variation

A naval base is seeking permission to change the way it disposes of rainwater contaminated by trace amounts of radioactivity at its Plymouth dockyard.

Dorset farmer's leaky silage clamp kills fish in river

More than 400 fish were killed because a Dorset farm owner was unaware effluent from his silage clamp was discharging into a river.

Environment Agency and eBay crack down on illegal vehicle breakers

Clampdown saw 10 traders suspected of selling without the correct permissions in place having their eBay accounts suspended.