Des bénéfices record pour la flotte de l'UE soulignent les avantages économiques d'une pêche durable

Le Rapport Economique Annuel sur la Flotte de Pêche de l'UE de 2018 fait état de performances économiques sans précédent de la flotte de pêche de l'UE en 2016, et associe étroitement ce résultat à l'utilisation de méthodes de pêche durables. Karmenu Vella, commissaire en charge de l'environnement, des affaires maritimes et de la pêche, a déclaré: "Il est encourageant de constater que la tendance positive en cours a permis à une hausse des bénéfices pour le secteur de la pêche et à une plus grande valeur ajoutée pour les communautés de la pêche et des zones côtières de l'UE. Ceci démontre clairement que notre engagement conjoint en faveur de la durabilité porte ses fruits. La déclaration ministérielle qui vient d'être signée à Malte entre les États membres de l'UE et les pays tiers de la Méditerranée et de la mer Noire propose un plan d'action sur 10 ans afin que les petites flottes côtières de ces pays puissent également bénéficier de cette tendance positive." La flotte de l'UE a enregistré des bénéfices nets record de 1,3 milliard d'euros en 2016, soit une augmentation de 68% par rapport à 2015. Les prévisions pour 2017 et 2018 s'annoncent par ailleurs prometteuses. Le rapport indique que les performances économiques stagnent lorsque les flottes dépendent de stocks encore en situation de surpêche ou de surexploitation. Les flottes qui pêchent de manière durable sont en nombre toujours croissant et ont vu une nette amélioration de leur rentabilité. Cette tendance positive dans la gestion de la pêche rapproche l'UE de son objectif de pêche durable à l'horizon 2020. Plus d'informations sont disponibles ici. EU supports flood response in Nigeria

The European Union is mobilising humanitarian assistance of €1 million in response to the current flooding in Nigeria. The EU humanitarian assistance will support the affected families and provide shelter, food and medicine. In addition, the Commission is providing technical expertise, deploying an environmental expert through the EU Civil Protection Mechanism, and producing satellite maps through the Copernicus Emergency Management Service. "Natural disasters, such as the current heavy floods in Nigeria, once again show the global impact of climate change. Through our EU Civil Protection Mechanism, the European Union is showing its solidarity with Nigeria and is supporting the National Emergency Management Agency's response," said Commissioner for Humanitarian Aid and Crisis Management Christos Stylianides.
