

Export bar to save flint handaxes crafted by some of Britain's very first human settlers

A temporary export bar has been placed on two prehistoric handaxes representing some of the oldest human settlements in Britain