

Festive foods and your medicines: MHRA shares advice to help you stay safe this winter

This holiday season, the MHRA is reminding people that some common festive foods can interact with medicines, altering how well they work or increasing the risk of side effects.