

First astronaut with a disability cleared for space station mission

John McFall has been cleared to become the first person with a physical disability to take part in a mission to the International Space Station (ISS).