

Fleet of spy drones to equip British soldiers and back jobs in South West England and Wales

British soldiers will be better protected and more lethal on the battlefield as a new investment of up to £400 million will see the Army equipped with the latest spy drone technology.