

Foreign Secretary Chatham House essay: Britain's place in the new world order

We are facing a storm of geopolitical instability, economic coercion, AI and climate change – and it's likely to get worse. But by working more closely with Europe and seeking greater cooperation outside the big trading bloc...