

GE-Hitachi's Small Modular Reactor completes first step of design assessment

GDA process enables regulators to begin assessing the safety, security, safeguarding and environmental aspects of new nuclear power station designs at an early stage of the regulatory process